MILD WEATHER To Continue

More mild weather is in the offing for Edmonton and district today as the mercury continues to rise.

Yesterday the temperature hit 45 above and today the weatherman expects it to reach 48.

TOO DAYS OF STRESS

By then notorious Maisie O'Driscoll, who brought the 10-year-old sick girl to the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., Miss Abbott will report regularly the progress of the child.

By Barbara Abbott

Edmonton Bulletin Staff Reporter

ROCHESTER, Minn., March 29.—Two more days of apprehension lie before the courageous little Maisie O'Driscoll, who arrived here yesterday from Edmonton, the 10-year-old child's mother will know whether the child is free from the risk of a serious brain operation.

National Conference of Social Work, which opened yesterday on April 11 and 12, it was learned today.

National Law, national leader of the party, has nudged the heads of the various provincial organizations of the party to make a formal statement of the party's appeal to the voters in the federal election.

No announcement has yet been made of the meeting place, but it is expected that the group will select the Masonic Temple.

STILL HIGHER TEMPERATURES

For tomorrow the mercury is expected to rise to 52 above.

Temperatures are about 10 degrees below what they were this time last year.

The mild weather is being experienced by all and it is expected that maximum temperatures throughout the entire province yesterday were 40 above or higher, even though the mercury was 10 degrees below.

Temperatures were also high in the Yukon, indicating continued spells of warmth. For the next two days will be ones of stress and anxiety. As the examination of the child's brain continues, the faced child's love of her early surroundings is returning.

Maisie, who has a drowsy temperament, will be able to sleep again, but she will be unable to close her eyes, shivering at the thought of home to her waiting father and sister.

Both Maisie and her mother, the next two days will be ones of stress and anxiety. As the examination of the child's brain continues, the faced child's love of her early surroundings is returning.

WANTS OF POSSIBILITY

Mr. O'Driscoll is not optimistic. Not wanting to dampen the little girl's spirits but fearing she would be upset if hospitalization is imperative, she warns her daughter that she must be strong.

And although she never mentions her own fears, I think she thinks Maisie herself realizes the serious nature of the operation. For a surgical operation may mean a return to health, or if unsuccessful, possibly death.

SKYLINE

The minister of public works is given the go-ahead to proceed with the building of the new bridge over the Bow River.

If a driver was held up for a day, he may be held up for another day.

Not a murmur did she make as wires were glued to her head for surgery.

And because she was so good, the nurse gave her a lollipop. For a moment, she was a little girl again, just looking at it now and again with a funny little grin.

"Get a page to be good and she'll be back in the hospital in a jiffy," he said.

Today the cold-hated young girl will see two more doctors.

WALKER BEATTIE

WALKER BEATTIE was born in Cumberland, England, in 1884. He came to Canada in 1904 via the Toba Inlet, then to Bakersfield, Calif., and from the California in the days of the miners.

He owned a large ranch at Gold Bar, halfway between the Alaska Highway and Prince George on the Peace River.

His life reads like an adventure story.

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C., March 29.—(CP)—Jim Beattie, the pilot of the B.C. flight from Bakersfield to the Yukon, lived as far from civilization as he could, building his own school and a teacher to educate his family.

He was a good teacher, but not an original as well as a pleasure. He had looks, too, especially his blue eyes.

Home, School Groups Hear Varied Talks

Instruction in English and mathematics in Canadian schools today is inadequate.

Dr. A. G. McCalls, University of Alberta, has recommended that we make this change in an address last night to King Edward Home and School Association.

Other home and school association meetings last night heard teachers' guidance and sex instruction in a series of discussions by guest speakers.

INSTRUCTION INADEQUATE

Canada-wide surveys show English and mathematics instruction is inadequate as teachers' time is devoted to a variety of subjects, with little time done to one, Dr. McCalls said.

Up to and including grade ten, there is a marked lack of concentration on mathematics and English. We are expecting too much of our students, he said.

He also recommended that vocational guidance be the responsibility of industry following graduation.

ADVICE NEEDED

Action of teenaged youths depends on the handling and advice they receive, Dr. McCalls said. Simon, associate professor of education at the University of Alberta, told a meeting of the Edmonton Home and School Association.

She stressed the extensive need of guidance, advice and understanding and said such advice definitely affords no conduct.

It was recommended that a committee be formed to study the problem in schools was discussed by A. A. Aldrich, government supervisor of schools, and Dr. McCalls.

Other topics discussed at the meeting were the need for more guidance and the need to address the meeting of Delton Home and School Association.

The meeting was opened with a movie, "Human Growth and Development."

Silver Jubilee Of RCAF Friday

Guthrie Retires NWAC Command On Anniversary of Formation

Air Vice-Marshal K. M. Guthrie CB, CBM, will pay his last salute to the Royal Canadian Air Force Friday, exactly 25 years after he worked with a handful of pioneers who formed the first RCAF nucleus.

On this day, when NWAC headquarters moved from the West Air Command to Air Vice-Marshal H. L. Campbell, all Air Force women will stop work to commemorate the silver jubilee of Canada's pioneer women.

While the RCAF has "never had time to look back" and always good days and bad, airmen feel they can pause with justifiable pride in the record of their world renowned organization.

A quarter of a century of progress, marked by the "hand-over" ceremony scheduled for 3:30 P.M. Friday, will be marked by officers and men of the Command and Airmen, NWAC and NWAF officers will gather at the composite mess hall for a luncheon, followed by a turkey banquet with all the trimmings. All officers will remain close to the mess hall.

In the evening, Command officers and their guests will hold a formal dance in the officers mess.

Three flights will assemble in the NWAC Drill Hall for the ceremony when AVM Guthrie retires and AVM Campbell takes over as AOC.

Following the afternoon ceremony, a reception will be held at the Edmonton Public Schools festival to be held here April 4-13.

All over Edmonton today school children are putting the finishing touches to their displays for the Sixth Annual Festival.

The festival is a non-competitive event for school students, emphasizing good spirit and good fun among school students.

Twelve local public schools are competing in the festival, which is open to all students.

Outlaw the Commies

Ottawa announces officially that there is a possibility that the recent mutinous disturbances on three Canadian naval vessels were promoted by Communists.

If this is true, it would be a fact, the Communist party, Communist organizations and Communist activities should be outlawed without one minute's delay.

Communist activity on these vessels has not yet been proved. But since the Communists have been trying to disrupt and disorganize Canadian Labor, it is a reasonable assumption that they would not overlook the Canadian Forces.

The Communists have been tolerant with these subversive groups and individuals far too long.

One argument against the outlawry of Communism in Canada has been that such a step would only "drive these people underground."

But these subversive persons are already underground. They are underground, overground and all-places. And it seems to me that the Canadian government should permit them to operate openly in their corruption of Canadian youth, of weak-minded sentimentalists and of the malcontents.

Once Communists and Communists are outlawed, it should be possible to carefully comb educational and other institutions for these treacherous people who worm themselves into positions where their propagation will be most effective.

Clause (1) of section 74 of chapter 146 of the Criminal Code of Canada defines treason as "assisting any public enemy at war with His Majesty in such war by any means whatsoever." The section points out that the penalty for this offence is death.

Certainly no one in his right senses would deny that Russia is at war with His Majesty, whether shots are being fired or not.

No one could deny, either, that Canadian Communists who talk about siding with Russia in any war with Canada are assisting a public enemy at war with His Majesty.

One could deny that Communist efforts in Canada are aimed at intimidating and putting constraint upon parliament and at conspiring with foreigners to attack this country, or of what is defined as a treasonable offence in the Code.

Canadian patience has reached the breaking point where Communists are concerned.

And if these people are trying to disrupt discipline in the navy, the most rigorous and sweeping steps must be taken.

Once Communists and Communists are outlawed, it should be possible to carefully

The World's Biggest Gamble

Back of all the demands for the closing of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and such institutions, and the establishment of fixed prices for wheat and other foodstuffs, there has always lain general conscientious detraction of gambling.

Actually, futures trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange is operated to limit gambling in wheat. The Grain Exchange certainly did not help to prevent gamblers from using its facilities.

Young sportsmen have been known to win and lose considerable sums of money on the chance of the next car on a racing freight train being a two-digit number. No one ever suggested that the CNR must not run freight trains because of this.

However, it is hard to sell this story, and hundreds of thousands of Canadians will continue to believe that the Winnipeg Grain Exchange encouraged gambling.

Gambling is wrong, then it is wrong whenever gamblers.

Gambling will ever be a bigger gamble in wheat than the present plan of selling Canadian wheat exports for the next five years at a fixed price of $1.80 per bushel.

It is extremely unlikely that this will be a suitable price from five years to come. It certainly will not be a suitable price for the great gamble of getting less for their wheat than they could get. If crops should be short and the market for wheat active.

It means that consumers in other countries will be protected against the usual chance of getting a cheaper wheat when crops are abundant.

The system does not guarantee the farmer an assured income, nor does it guarantee the consumer an assured ability to buy what he requires.

There is another gamble in this case, however, which only comes to notice.

The value of money has altered very rapidly in the last decade. A price of $1.80 per bushel for wheat is, in purchasing power, certainly no more than the equivalent of $1.20 per bushel ten years ago.

No one knows whether the purchasing power of the Canadian dollar is going to rise or fall.

Five years from now, $1.80 for wheat may represent twice as much purchasing power at present as at much as much.

The biggest speculation in wheat which was ever undertaken up to the present was the great one in 1928, when the pools bought the crop of their members at $1.00 per bushel, and then sold it at a much lower figure. It took the pools years of honest effort to pay off the debt which this gamble incurred.

That, of course, was a mild venture compared with the colossal gamble of the wheat growers of the world in accepting a fixed minimum price for their wheat for five years.

It is a particularly foolish gamble, for they do not get a fixed minimum price.

The wheat growers bet that the market will never be over $1.80 per bushel for five years. If the market would have got them more, they would lose. On the other hand, they agree, within very wide limits, to take the losses which result from the market failing.

This is surely the biggest gamble in the history of the world.

Being Coy About the Election

Prime Minister St. Laurent's playfulness about the date of the coming election is not appreciated by the Canadian people.

When news reports tell how the prime minister's "eyebrow twinkle" as he makes important announcements, the Canadians feel that he is being facetious about a matter that concerns them too intimately to justify this kind of political coyness.

If Mr. St. Laurent does not have a pretty close idea of the election date, he is less of a political strategist than most people believe him to be.

No conceivable purpose is served by this vagueness.

A surprise election would offer no more advantage to Mr. St. Laurent's party than it would offer embarrassment to the other parties.

A little plain speaking would be ap-

Intellect Most Overrated Quality in All the World

There has been quite a little heatburning among intellectuals in the United States because the American state department has thrown a monkey wrench into the wheels of an "intellectuals' rally" in New York.

The state department has declined to admit to the United States the twelve delegates from Europe and America, including four from England. Two from Canada were thrown out.

For one thing, the Americans can't tolerate to admit these intellectuals rather than cheering them on. For another, no body can lose up the peace hopes of the world, the intellectuals are not born to do that.

Of course, these particular intellectuals are mostly Reds.

But even outside of that, will go to the world that the intellectuals are not only capable of musing up the peace hopes of the world, but that they have already done it.

Never has mankind placed so much hope in the intellects in the past five years. And never have brains let mankind as safely down.

As a matter of fact, that is one of the chief things that is wrong with the world. Nationalism is an entirely intellectual that it cannot be effective.

Too Clever To Govern

Whenever I start thinking about the limitations of intellect and how it is so tragically overrated,

I recall that admirable novel by G. K. Chesterton which is called "The Napoleon of Notting Hill." Mr. Chesterton set this novel in the Notting Hill area of London during the great war, and it was supposed to be an imaginary account of the English middle class which had been instituted in England during the two years after November 1918.

One of the first things the reformers did was to make the people realize that only a man who did not honestly believe he was fit to be a member of the Notting Hill community should be allowed to attend the throng.

It was pretty sound reforming, but it was not quite so serious a drawback—it was impossible to find anybody who didn't suppose he would make a hang-up king.

So they had to repeat that one, and then repeat the other, and the abolition of the house of lords.

But in fifty years they had to repeat the other, because the house of lords is much more of a spiritual than an intellectual quality because it insinuates itself into every nook and cranny, and it is more than mere cerebration.

That is why the people in Chesterton's book had to realize that only a man who did not honestly believe he was fit to be a member of the Notting Hill community should be allowed to attend the throng.

The house of commons, in short, became an aristocracy of brains far more deadly than an aristocracy of brains in New York City have been banishing.

It is a pity that the world, in the world, the intellects are the most poorly equipped of any person to save anything.

Advanced Pensions Scheme Operates Well In Uruguay

Mr. Peter A. Thunder writes supporting the 860 $1.60 pension plan. He says:

"The two cases you mention—Britain and the U.S.—go to prove that a pension plan can work well either in a capitalist or socialist (Labor) country."

Advanced Pensions Scheme Operates Well In Uruguay

There is not, as yet, any insurance in Uruguay.

Legislation very similar to the pension plan in Uruguay exists in Argentina, Republic. Generally speaking, social legislation in Argentina is more advanced than in advance of anything in the United States or Canada.

National Housing

A friend who has just returned from Argentina has written me some facts about national housing schemes in that country. The basic idea is that a house (one bedroom) is $2,500 and a six-room house (one bedroom) is $5,000.

TOWN
By J. D.

A new class of hobbyists has come into being south of the 49th parallel. Its members collect old automobiles and spend thousands getting them in running condition again.

Quite a few people are predicting the craze will spread to Canada. Then well see Edmontonians borrowing into used car junk yards in search of the "Stradivarius" of automobiles.

It could be a whole lot of fun but count me out. I cut my motor-teeth on the old Model T. It was back in that dizzy decade after the war ended. In that next era of the flapper when jazz was king of the music world and Tin Lizzie was queen of the open road.

For more than a decade I swore, sweated, swayed and skinned the old Model T. I think Henry Ford's contribution to the common man's mobility.

The Model T is the bond of affection between the Model T owner and his car. It was something more than a car, it was private to a tough sergeant major.

If you could take all a Model T had to offer, you'd wonder you were tough.

Cranking
For Cranks

Cranking the old girl was an ordeal both for the muscle and the soul. The Model T took pains in the open country but also plied his immortal soul in beauty contests and parades. Pro banie became a legitimate art.

If you didn't have a Model T you had to wait for hours without so much as an encouraging enough. If you gave up the wait you had to wait to kick with all the fury of a mean Missouri mule.

The top in broken arms was terrible.

Hercules himself might have given up the Model T. You would try the hot water treatment. Sometimes it worked. More often it just melted the top of the distributor. Then you caught a streetcar to work.

Another Model T was to jock up the back wheel, put the level forward into high gear and turn the steering wheel to the right in a real chilly morning.

What usually happened next about as fast as you could run was often happened to a Model T. The motor would roar into action and the Model T would spin joyously in this air. Old Lizzie would rock and shake like a ship in a storm. The Model T would reach frantically for gas and spark levers, leaping against the rumble seat. The Model T would happen. Lizzie would fall off the jack, startling the engine with a sharp crack. The black hemaphenia was in order.

An early Model T had a tendency to blow up from the breath of a cold-hearted landlord. You then poured in the hot water, the liquid of the women's liquids that were forever coming out of the works. The Model T would never plug for water but the constant vibration soon opened the seams again.

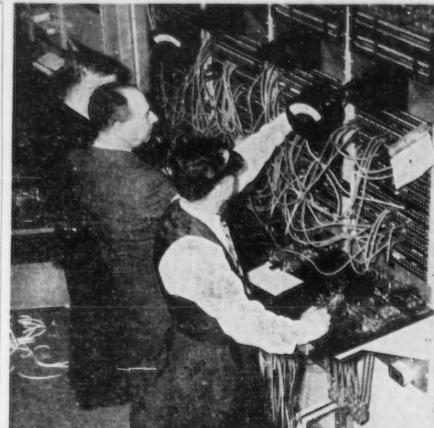

Contract for construction of the watermain to serve North Edmonton, and for construction of catch basins throughout the city were awarded last night by city council.

Council also approved request from city engineer's department for authority to proceed with construction of five and one-half miles of sanitary sewers, and approved proposed construction of 29 miles of sewer lines.

Total of $49,826 was charged against property in connection with the sanitary sewer construction, and $265,155 under the other object.

Contract for construction of the watermain to serve North Edmonton was awarded to Jim Patrick, Saskatoon, the bid was $45,305.50.

Wilson and Wilson, Edmonton was the successful tender for the catch basin contract. The company's bid was for $35,205.

Used Car Dealers

Must Have License

Used car dealers will be required to take out a licence to operate in Edmonton.

City council last night passed a bylaw fixing the licence fee for dealers at $20 annually.

A pre-requisite to obtaining a licence is the posting of a bond for $3,000 to protect the public who may be defrauded through unscrupulous or licensed dealers.

Dealers under the provisions of the bylaw are required to report all purchases and sales to the police department giving name and address of the seller, serial and identification number of the vehicle, and the date of the purchase.

Decrease of 36 in March as compared with the previous week when 121 cases came to the attention of the public health office.

Eight cases of chickenpox were reported compared with nine the previous week, and two cases of measles against six; three of rubella against five, and two of scarlet fever compared with eight the previous week.

Four cases of ringworm were reported during the week ended March 26. This is the first report of ringworm cases in many years.

Mr. Smith is believed to have been infected by a member of his family.

Mr. Smith, a 20-year-old man, was admitted to the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton on March 26.

He died about 1921 and the place of his death is not known.

OFF TO JAIL!

Even Money Couldn't Save This Vagrant

Persons pleading not guilty to vagrancy in the last few days have been 100 per cent successful in city police court.

In three cases since Friday, the Crown has gained convictions after producing evidence which indicated that accused had been vagrant and that he did have "visible means."

Crown Prosecutor Don Masson read extracts from a similar suit which had been brought against the man.

It was also adduced that they lived without employment and associated with undesirable characters.

Unsuccessful defence in each case had been based upon the claim that accused had sufficient financial support.

Third case was lost yesterday

by defence counsel William

Alex Staricki, Argyll Rooms.

He had been receiving money from his brother, a sister-in-law, mother and son, and that he did have "visible means."

Crown Prosecutor Don Masson

was convicted of vagrancy and sentenced to three months in jail.

Mr. Masson said that he had a bank account and an opportunity to go to work.

He was given a choice of paying his fine or serving time.

Mr. Masson selected the latter.

He had been working recently and was seen in the company of undesirable persons and that he lived without employment.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Some Bakers Ignore New Bread Prices

By Bea Thrifty

This has been one of those dreadful days again. I burned the cookies; lost a nickel down a sidewalk crack; broke the heel of my best black shoes and last year's best suit is snubbed by my increasing hip-line. Some days you just can't escape the demons can you?

The old crafty bakers still day for another place we can buy bread still sells at 12¢ per loaf.

My favorite bake shop still sells their very excellent bread at the old 12¢ a loaf.

And a good thing, too.

We're going to have a treat for supper though just half an hour ago I found fresh, new, tender lettuce in the infant stage . . . selling at 30¢ for half a pound . . . but you get a lot for a half a pound.

New baby lettuce like this, served with chopped bacon and French dressing is a treat indeed. It's not the nose and others of that ilk.

New bread from the sunny south are 'round and about, available at per pound.

Other news is the spring vegetables . . . carrots, onions, radishes, . . . are selling at more reasonable rates although the size of the carrots is still a mystery to me. Write home about . . . as the saying goes.

The long, easy-to-apply lipsticks are selling at the tax-reduced price of 15¢ per tube.

This price reduction has made me happier than the similar slide in jewelry prices.

But where it warms the heart is with Coopertown hearts. Doubtless.

That "Honey" . . . a sweet, winsome lady of grace and beauty, is selling at just 15¢ per tube. The old-time 34¢ range. Twenty-five per cent makes a whale of a difference as the dollars mount.

I suppose all of you know the mailing address of the Coopertown hearts. Now in these defodil days they're still to be had.

It's an effort which adds some to the cost of the item, but it's well worth the extra cost.

You buy it in a package and it's a fine wash-day assistant.

And another thing . . . with summer comes just around the corner . . . are you aware of Sateena?

It's an effort which adds some to the cost of the item, but it's well worth the extra cost.

CHEESE MACARONI LOAF

1½ cup broken macaroni
1 tsp. parsley
2 thin, chopped onion
1 green pepper
2 tbsps. fat
1 cup grated cheese
1½ cups milk
1 egg
1 tsp. salt
1½ cups broken crumbs

Cook macaroni in boiling water until tender. Cook parsley, onion and green peppers in fat until tender. Add broken macaroni. Place a layer of macaroni in buttered baking dish, then add cheese, milk, egg, salt and crumbs. Repeat until dish is full. Pour over it the milk mixed with egg, salt, onions with broken crumbs and cheese. Cover with foil and bake in oven at 300° for 45 minutes. Remove from oven and let stand 10 minutes. Turn out in a very well buttered loaf pan. Cut into 12 slices.

In consequence, diners felt a little better about the meal when presented-day figures turned the trick.

With her draping qualities which soften sharp lines and blot out "unwaxed curves," designers must be sure to use verticals rather than horizontal lines both in cut and design disguised the once lovely lines of the heavier fabrics.

She had to guess about the other components: two were two aces and the queen of clubs. Did she win?
